150 ISSUES OF POOR, POOR JOKES

Issue One kicks off in 1998 with some girl from Corrie eating her finger

ISSUE 110 We think 'fuck it' and put everything and put everything in the mag that we love, with Kitty Lea as a sexy emo getting naked with her chav friend. Everyone else loves it, too. Brill

So here we are, knee-deep in 150 issues – that's probably a small forest o' trees. But who needs trees when you've got Rosie Jones? Next month we're turning into a gay mag

STOP THE PRESS: NEW FRIDGE

Cheers to the COOL people at Amica, who sorted us out with a fridge-freezer, because they're so ICE. It's the best fridge we've ever owned, SNOW joke Do you get our DRIFT? If the dude from Amica came in here, we'd all sing, "FREEZER jolly good fellow." So, yeah, we got a new fridge. Visit amica-international. co.uk for more excellent household appliances.

The mouth from which this month's finest jibbering is muttered will be quenched with a delicously brilliant case of Tuborg's finest bubbles.

WHAT'S WITH THE MISTLETOE AND SNOGGING THEN, EH?

IT'S A CROCK OF SHIT, REALLY, like how hamburgers don't have any ham in them. This world rips you off at every turn. Mince pies did once have flesh in, though - back in the Middle Ages, they used to be giant, containing whole rabbits as well as fruit. They slowly became smaller and fruitier, and were once made illegal by Oliver Cromwell because of their religious connotations. Traditionally you're supposed to eat them in silence, which gives you a nicely old-fashioned reason to tell your nan to shut the fuck up on Christmas Day.

IARD MAN OVES FRONT

I'm currently stuck out in Afghanistan, but luckily for me my mate back home posts me FRONT every month. It's the best thing ever, and learning crazy tricks such as swallowing swords and surviving a falling lift, as well as looking at sexy girls, keeps me going. Keep up the depravity. CPL JOE ARMSTRONG, VIA E-MAIL

Check that name out, readers. Is there a more army-ish name ever than Cpl Joe Armstrong? Amazing. Keep up the good work, Corporal, and show those Jerries what-for.

WORKIE DONE BAD

I reckon the workie challenge in which Adam dressed up as a cover should have resulted in a fail. Why didn't he choose to recreate one with two girls on? He could've touched boob and everything. BTW, you can see my arm in your excellent Trash Talk photos.

JO W, VIA TEXT

You have a famous arm, Jo. If we ever meet your arm, we're totally getting its autograph, unless it's your left arm and you're right-handed, because then your handwriting'll probably be shit.

OR SOMETHING?

So, in your latest issue, Andrew WK's advice column carries a warning, mentioning the consequences of 'following the advice above'. As this is placed at the top of the page, I can't understand what the fuck you're on about. I'd appreciate a response, ideally from a hot lass.

LUKE WARBURTON, VIA E-MAIL

Unfortunately all the hot lasses about are busy at the moment, Luke, but we have managed to track down a sweaty van driver in only his pants, who says, "Oh, fuck off, Luke."

FRAUDSTER IN THE MAKING

I'd love some of your free stickers, but under this knob they call David Cameron I am not getting EMA and currently have 13p in the bank. Therefore I can't afford a sodding stamp. I'll come pick them up if that's possible. I only live down the road.

There are plenty of ways to make 36p, Blayn. Have you considered turning to prostitution? With your good looks, you should be up to 36p in, ooh, 18 shags or so. Easy!

ALEX, EXETER

We showed Karren your note, Alex, and she said she'd be round your house in 15 minutes to give you a right good seeing-to. Best jump in the shower you stink.

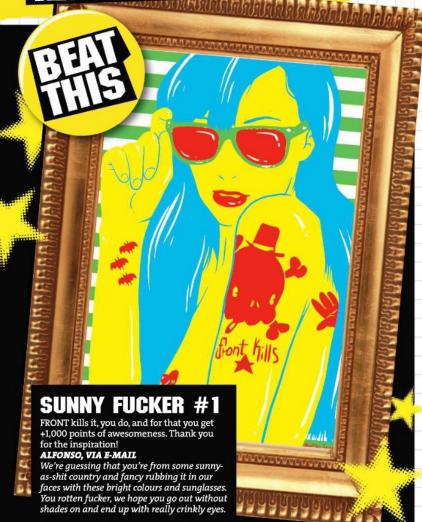

It seems there is a battle going on as to who is the fittest newsreader. Issue 146 had Carol Kirkwood, and issue 148 had the hot Sian Williams. But, sexy Susanna Reid trumps them all! HARRY, YORK

Is there anything sexier than a slightly posh lady off the telly who knows about current events and stuff? Yes, probably, but that still does it for us.

YOUR FACE AND THE MAG

Thanks for the awesome signed photo - again, FRONT fucking rules. Here is a shot on my wall with other FRONT bits.

LUKE HART, FRONTARMY. COM CAPTION COMP WINNER Look here, everyone! Luke's won one competition this month already, and he clearly fancies his chances winning a load of booze as well. Get to fuck, Luke we see your shitty plan.

STINKY

I get bored sometimes in the tattoo shop where I work, so when it's quiet I draw pics of your girls. KIEFER LUKE, VIA E-MAIL

Ever wondered why it's quiet in your tattoo shop, Kiefer? Is it because you mutter dodgy things like "I draw pictures of your girls" to everyone that comes in for your inky custom? Just a thought, like.

SUNNY FUCKER

Cheers from Ecuador! Here's a drawing I did of super-hottie Hannah Martin. I think she's gorgeous. ALEX, FROM

For fuck's sake, another sun-loving bastard trying to irritate us back here in the pissy UK. One question, though, Alex: what's that spherical floating poo stain doing just off Hannah's head? No. Fucking. Clue.

KNICKER STICKERS

I received my stickers today, as you can see. I plan on being much more imaginative in the future, but until then, enjoy this. LUCY, VIA F-MAIL

You're not the first person to send in our ace stickers on pants, Lucy. But because your gonads have stayed inside your grundies, you've made it into the mag! x

LADY OF TATTOOS DOES BOOK

THE MAGNIFICENTLY cool Kat Von D has unveiled a shiny new book based on her inky exploits, and we can tell you now that it's a bloody good read. At least, the pictures are nice - the sad thing is we NEVER LEARNT TO READ...

Thankfully, The Tattoo Chronicles is also crammed to the nads with awesome pics of some of her best work and the cream of her celeb clients, including warty Kronenbourg-bummer Lemmy, the nutty Bam Margera and the scary Mike Vallely. There's a few boner-popping shots of Kat's oily torso chucked in there for good measure, too.

Even though she goes on a bit too much about Nikki Sixx - the Mötley Crüe dude who was her other half for a while - we're still happy as Larry, partly because she's managed to get a photo of an albino squirrel in there, too. The Tattoo Chronicles is out now

Andrew W.K.

AS YOU KNOW, life is not about simply surviving: it's about thriving, going for more, and making the most of every moment. Life is a party.

However, there have been some times in life where keeping this simple truth in mind has been difficult. Difficulties with money, relationships, and general daily stress can sometimes distract us from the true nature of our existence. Here are three situations that have often freaked people out, and a solution for each...

WE'RE LIKE SPECKS OF DUST We're all aware that we're impossibly small when it comes to the vastness of the universe. We're barely bigger or more important than ants. It can be depressing and take the wind out of your sails. BUT HERE'S THE TRUTH: our insignificance is our greatest asset! It gives us freedom! If we're really small and unimportant, then it makes it way easier to stop stressing out about little things. Since we barely matter, not much of what we do will matter, so we might as well not take anything too seriously. It proves that none of that shit matters. It's all crap!

WHAT IF I DIE? We'll all die someday. I do believe that, someday, technology will allow us to hang around for as long as we want, but assuming that's really far off, you and I and everyone else around us will die. But once again, the nature of death can actually be something motivating. If we're going to die someday, and maybe even soon, we have no reason not to rave it up before we go. Worrying about death is the silliest thing of all, because it's certain. So, in case we die tomorrow, let's party hard tonight and say, "FUCK YOU, DEATH! WE'RE PARTYING TO SPITE YOU!'

WHAT'S REALLY GOING ON?

The truth is, no one really knows what's going on. No one has even the faintest idea. Sometimes in life it can cause anxiety to not know what's going on, but keep this in mind: NO ONE KNOWS SHIT. So let's party!

P.S. I've been thinking a lot about girl's bodies. I just wanted to say how great it is when you can see a girl's behind from the front, and when you can see her breasts from the back. It's amazing.

MEET THE NEW FACE OF MTV

HERE BE ALICE LEVINE, THE NEW (AND SUPER PRETTY) FACE BEHIND MTV'S CELEBRITY BITES...

HELLO, ALICE. WHO ARE YOU AND WHAT DO YOU DO?

I present Celebrity Bites. It's a mix of celebrity gossip and irreverent interviews. Think Popworld back in its hevday doing a sex with Perez Hilton's blog, and Celebrity Bites as the strange child that spawns.

> SOUNDS DISGUSTING. WHO'S BEEN THE

WEIRDEST INTERVIEWEE YOU'VE HAD?

I wouldn't say this was weird, but I interviewed Good Charlotte, and they gave me a tattoo. It was only a transfer, but getting a tattoo off the Madden brothers is a pretty ace claim to fame.

HOW DOES ONE LAND A SUPER JOB AT MTV? IT LOOKS FUN...

I used to work for Bebo as an intern, and made some video content for them. They liked it and I got asked to make a weekly show, which MTV picked me up off the back of. I started with a small blog, and ended up presenting. It's crazy when you think of it like that.

AS YOU'RE A BLOGGING SUPREMO, CAN WE HAVE SOME NIFTY TIPS?

I guess one thing to remember is even if you think it's interesting, it doesn't mean everyone else will think so, too. Nobody wants to know what you had for breakfast, so select only cool stuff to put down. Having said that, I've just posted a pic of me playing chess against a dog on Twitter.

ABOUT

WHAT? The Black Flag club. WHERE? Wakefield. WHO DERE? Fightstar, lovely

ladies the Sirens. BEST BIT: The makeshift after-party in the dressingroom showers.

IT CAN BE VERY EASY for a standard night out to turn into a full-on debauched orgy of boozing, moshing and nudity in Wakefield. At least that's the lesson we learnt from popping along to the city's newest and messiest clubnight...

The organisers of Black Flag kicked it all off in style, inviting the mighty Fightstar to town to party hard and get Wakey sweating its collective titties off. WORST BIT: The makeshift bed outside Iceland.

THE LOOK: Blood, sweat, fire. DRINK OF CHOICE Cheap-ass Jägerbombs.

DRUNKEN LUNACY RATING 8 snakebite sicks outta 10.

They also roped in the services of the ever-awesome Sirens, who put on a trouser-breakingly sexy show involving hard liquor, boobs and, er, milk. But just which of these troupes rocked the night the hardest?

• FIGHTSTAR

THE LOOK: Unkempt beards, sweaty cheeks and big eyebrows. ON THE RIDER: Fruit teas, and some cress sandwiched with the crusts cut off. We imagine. PERFORMANCE: A sturdy effort onstage, but it was bedtime before the post-show Jägers could even dream of being bombed. PARTY RATING: 4 tame-ass shandys out of 10.

• THE SIRENS

THE LOOK: Boobs covered only by gaffer tape, and plenty of showers involving warm milk. ON THE RIDER: Rancid-tasting spirits, implements for starting fires and rude-looking cakes. PERFORMANCE: Their balls-tothe-bar show had the audience pissing their pants and downing shots in equal measure, in fact some probably ended up doing shots of piss, such was the mood. PARTY RATING: 9 crotchgrinding dance-offs out of 10.

DECEMBER'S A BIG MONTH IN THE THRASH AND NU METAL CALENDAR, BUT WHICH OUT-SHREDS THE OTHER?

We're not sure exactly what constitutes being thrash – Bruising rythms? Finger-snapping solos? Barked vocals? - but we like its combination of heaviness and aggro.

We're not sure exactly what constitutes being nu metal – Red hats? Decks? Odd facepaint? Being full of boo-hoo angst? – but we like its combination of ridiculousness and silliness.

SLAYER: Arguably the best of thrash's Big Four, Slayer boast metal's finest guitarist (Kerry King, left) and drummer (Dave Lombardo), who came together after the latter delivered the former a pizza. Proof that deliciously unhealthy snacks can lead to more than diarrhoea.

THE MARMITE DUDE

SLIPKNOT: Nine masks, jars of dead crows, vomit, upside-down drumkits... Slipknot are so absurdly brilliant in the flesh that it's easy to forget how ace they are on record - and the tunes are as big as a tower made of woolly mammoths.

DAVE MUSTAINE

THE CASE FOR: Having played in Metallica and then formed Megadeth, there's not many people better versed in all things thrash.

THE CASE AGAINST: His Wikipedia is regularly changed to read things like, 'Dave Mustaine is a fucking twat' because, well, he's a bit of a twat.

ROSS ROBINSON

THE CASE FOR: The so-called 'Godfather Of Nu Metal' has produced classic albums for genre mainstays like Fear Factory, Korn and Limp Bizkit. THE CASE AGAINST: The so-called 'Godfather Of Nu Metal' has given the world bands like Fear Factory, Limp Bizkit and Korn.

IUST BECAUSE SOMETHING runs in your family, it doesn't mean you have to do it. Like, just because your dad is a doctor, or a greengrocer, or a murderer, doesn't mean you have to heal people, sell vegetables or cut throats. If your dad does the awesomest job in the world, though, you might as well go for it.

Turbogeist guitarist and co-front man Jimmy (screaming his life out on the right, there), for instance, is the son of Mick Jagger, and decided to follow his dad into music, although with a band that sound nothing like the Rolling Stones whatsoever. In fact, unless they re-formed as a Gregorian chant band or an all-triangles ensemble, they couldn't sound much more un-them.

The band describe themselves as "weirdo punk sounds with more macabre fantastic aural imagery", which is perhaps better described as "a bit of a bloody laugh". Jimmy, co-front man Luis, bassist James and drummer Josh have been exploding eardrums for a fair old bit now (with Luis and James also playing in Jamie T's band), popping up in Canada, New York, South By Southwest... all over the bloody shop. On the way they've experimented with makeup, upset the Daily Mail, and funded a tour by selling laughing gas.

Basically, it sounds like Turbogeist is one of the funnest bands to be in at the moment. They presumably spend half their time laughing uproariously at how much fun they're having, god damn it.

'EM® WAS JUS' PEOPLE APING EACH OTHER'S HAIRCUTS'

GERARD WAY

15, and when The Black Parade came out he was such a fan that I was able to meet him and his wife. We're all extremely close now and he's a very large part of my life. I look to him for advice. Talking about how polarising the band can be, he's the exact same for the comics world. He comes in and fearlessly executes what he wants, and gets the most hardcore admiration and really unfounded criticism as well. I think anyone making fearless work gets that, so we're kindred spirits.

WHAT HAPPENED WITH YOU GUYS AND THE DAILY MAIL? THEY FUCKING HATE YOU, DUDE. THEY SAID YOU MADE PEOPLE KILL THEMSELVES.

Look, they're an extremely sensationalistic tabloid that needs to sell copies, so they need to find sensationalist things to write about. I completely see where they're coming from. I'm sure certain tabloids will do the same thing all over again with Danger Days. We're not wearing black now, so they'll say we're dressed so colourful we must be trying to push drugs on kids.

IS THAT THE IDEA OF THIS RECORD. THEN, TO PUSH DRUGS ON KIDS?

The goal of this record is to subvert, infiltrate, contaminate. To fuck stuff up; to poison mediocrity. If we were called dangerous before, okay, let's make a really dangerous album. Let's put some ideas in it that actually are dangerous.

DO YOU STILL GET UPSET WHEN YOU'RE CALLED AN EMO BAND?

That word only bothered me when it was overused. I truly feel like, in terms of what's impacting music these days, it doesn't exist. It was a last-man-standing thing, like with grunge - there were a lot of bands with flannel shirts, but only a few that sounded great and even less that are still around, and emo never had the impact grunge had. There was so little substance to so much of it. It was really just people aping each other's haircuts. Emo was more fucking doomed than hair metal.

WHAT KIND OF BAND AREYOU? I think of us as a rock band, in every sense of the word. It's our job to take risks, it's our job to say dangerous dangerous things. To me rock 'n' roll is freedom, and if you're not free making your art and challenging the ideas of what rock is, then you're not really being a rock band. A rock band doesn't just cut their hair, grow beards and put on fucking black vests.

"NOW WE'RE DRESSED IN COLOUR AND NOT BLACK, PE WILL SAY WE'RE TRYING TO PUSH DRUGS ONTO KIDS"

THAT'S ONE VISUAL THING YOU'VE NOT DONE YET: THE BIG GIANT BEARDY STAGE.

I don't think anyone in the band can grow a beard, except maybe Frank and Ray, so we never have that to look forward to, which is great. Usually the worst album a band makes is the beard album. FROM

WATCHMEN

"Watchmen is the usually the first one that I recommend people to read. It's really good for people who don't care for comics - they read that and they realise that comics can be something else to what they'd expected.'

THE FILTH

"I feel a lot of Grant's work is stuff you read after you've started to be indoctrinated a little bit into the world of graphic novels. You get to his work, and that's when you realise, 'Whoa, this is a whole new level.'

"If after reading

Watchmen you want to scratch the itch a little and get some action, I would suggest this, or Frank Miller's run on Daredevil, Born Again. After that you'll start to get into Grant Morrison's work, and Sandman by Neil Gaiman. It's all pop-art, and postmodern, and really takes the medium and elevates it."

THE UMBRELLA ACADEMY

"I was faced with a lot of opposition, which meant I had to work as hard as I could and put out the best book that I could. It was really nice to win the Eisner and Harvey [big-ass comic awards] and to have the whole comics community behind me. I met some of my favourite authors and they told me how much they love the book, which was great."

WHAT HE SAYS

COME AND SIT BESIDE SANTA, LITTLE GIRL, AND TELL ME WHAT YOU'D LIKE FOR CHRISTMAS...

WHAT HE MEANS

You have to sit beside me these days instead of on me, since the stats came out – it only takes 15 bad Santas to spoil it for the rest of us. Don't suppose you've got an older sister, have you? About 14 or so? They'd probably let her on... Definitely if she looks older.

WHAT HE SAYS

HAVE YOU BEEN A GOOD GIRL FOR MUMMY AND DADDY THIS YEAR?

WHAT HE MEANS

Of course you have. That's what you all say as your parents grit their teeth. I'd fucking love it if, for once, one of you snot-caked little shitmunchers actually said something like, "Nah, Santa – I've been a horrible shit all year long," and tried to pull my beard off. Then I'd have an excuse to smack you across the chops.

WHAT HE SAYS

LOOK — THERE'S RUDOLPH. YOU CAN GO AND PAT RUDOLPH, IF YOU LIKE.

WHAT HE MEANS

'Rudolph' is, in fact, a dead pony that's been stuffed that I picked up in a market in Belgium. I just stick a red nose and some antlers on it. He's a good little earner – when I'm not being Santa, the pony gets tons of work as a stand-in in animal porn films. He's in need of a bit of repair, actually, especially round the back.

SECRET LANGUAGE

IN-STORE SANTA

HE'S NOT ACTUALLY SANTA, BUT IT'S AS CLOSE AS YOU'LL EVER GET – AS LONG AS YOU CAN IGNORE THE ODOUR OF SICK AND CHEAP BOOZE...

WHAT HE SAY

DON'T FORGET — SANTA IS ALWAYS WATCHING YOU. SO BE GOOD!

WHAT HE MEANS

Load of bollocks. Santa couldn't give a flying fuck about what you get up to. The only thing this Santa's interested in watching is The Racing Channel for the 11 blissful months of the year when he's not working. Enhanced, of course, by a diet mainly consisting of £2.49 bottles of cooking sherry. Lovely!

WISE WORDS

THE SEXY LIFE

OBSESSION OF THE MONTH:

HORROR MOVIES are the best kind of movies, I think, even though I never used to be able to watch them as I would faint at the sight of blood. In order to get over being a wuss, I had to go through a gruelling training program where I watched all the goriest movies from Fulci, to Argento, to goddamn Freddy Krueger, and read books about serial killers. It's actually lucky that I became okay looking later in life, otherwise I'd have probably grown up to be the next Rose West.

But that's neither here nor there. My training worked, and I can now watch any horror movie ever made without passing out. Nowadays, Tokyo Gore Police doesn't even crack a sweat, and Evil Dead is a piece of piss. I can even walk past a telly without thinking something's gonna crawl out of it.

Because of my nerves of steel, I reckon I'd make a really good horror movie heroine, as I wouldn't make any stupid mistakes like having sex with strangers in an empty log cabin or going into the dark garage to get some beers and getting caught in the cat flap like a dick. Plus, I'd totally batter the shit out of anyone that came at me with a chainsaw.

What I Does ove This Month

For the title alone -the actual film is really shit.

• FABLE III I never thought I'd say I was a fan of one of the Fables, but after playing it for ten days and completely falling in love with Elliot I guess I'll have to admit that I am.

• THE TRON SOUNDTRACK Tron

+ Daft Punk = untold amounts of awesome.

HATSUNE MIKU Anime songstress who is 'big in Japan' right now and also completely imaginary, having been made only for a computer game. She has a song called LOL. Go figure.

NANA Anime comic about a girl who is really shit with boys. Story of my life.

1 BETWEEN YOUR FINGERS Aaaah! Oh my god holy shit holy shit holy shit. Did you see Jackass: The Movie where they did papercuts get a hole in your ballsack, your balls fall out. It's like when you open a net bag of supermarket tangerines.

YOUR PRIDE In 1980s films about childhood and boys becoming men, people always 'got hit where it hurts' by their trousers falling down in public, or something.

YOUR GHOST Have you ever been punched in the ghost? It totally hurts.

OMEONE ELSE'S ARSE It hurts more watching someone else get kicked in the arse than getting kicked in the arse yourself. Fact.

ANDREW LINCOLN RULES THE U.S. IN THE WALKING DEAD

We had suspicions that Brit actor Lincoln would tear Yankee TV a new asshole when The Walking Dead lurched onto screens in November, and he didn't disappoint. The opening scene had him trying to empty a bullet into a girl zombie's head, and it's been all arse-tighteningly jumpy brilliance since.

Potato-headed disastermagnet Phil had already been an alcoholic and a budget gangsta, but he managed to find a whole new level of rock bottom when he got himself addicted to crack in 2010. The image of his sweaty red face flying high on rocks will haunt us forever.

HIGHEST ACHIEVER GEORGE MICHAEL

It started with a quiet night in with a spliff and ended with a Range Rover parked through the door of Snappy Snaps and some broken photo mugs commemorating Dave and Tina's ruby wedding anniversary. The Wham! legend looked genuinely surprised when he was sent down. That's the thing about being banged in the slammer – you don't see it coming. Wacca wacca.

BROMANCE OF THE YEAR NO. 1

If you're a gun-toting killer cornered by the police, a visit from a troubled football legend with some lager, chicken, a dressing gown and a fishing rod is surely exactly what you need to resolve the situation.

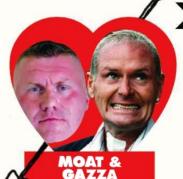

"I just want to give him some therapy and say, 'Come on, Moaty, it's Gazza," said the ex-England star who surpassed even his own recent erratic behaviour by turning up at the siege claiming to be "good friends" with the gunman, adding that "someone must have wound him up. Obviously he's killed someone and shot two, which is not nice, really."

BROMANCE OF THE YEAR NO.2

Mates 4 Eva, Usher cemented his platonic relationship with Bieber when he splashed out on him this year. For Beeb's sweet sixteenth, he treated the fringey pop midget to a big black ride he would never forget: a brand new Range Rover.

DAPPY'S MUM'S YARD

Since he became rich from grime-pop, Dappy's been able to buy his mum a nice flat inside his hat. He still goes round for his tea on weeknights – chicken dippers and beans, with either Haribo or, if he's trying to be healthy, a Müller Corner for afters.

CHILEAN MINER, MINER, ME GET ME OUT OF HERE!

DAY I

IAY CARAMBA!

The San José Mine, Copiapó, Chile: a gang of miners are mining merrily away, when the Taylor Swift album blaring from their ghetto blaster causes a tunnel to collapse. All 33 men are trapped deep within the Earth's pancreas!

Hunger is beginning to take hold. One of the miners is found to have been concealing a three-course candlelit meal for two. Massively enraged, the others elbow him to death. This takes several hours, as they are all starving and exhausted.

Hallelujah – contact is made with the outside world! The rescue team painstakingly prod 33 plates of spaghetti down to the miners through a tiny tube, one piece of pasta at a time.

The ghetto blaster's batteries finally give out. Without Taylor Swift's pop-rock stylings to keep their spirits lifted, despair sets in.

With jumbo-bollocked frustration starting to bite, the miners fashion a 'woman' and each take turns having a 'date' with her. However, she's dismantled when a fight breaks out between two jealous lovers.

The rousing group sing-song of Bottles Of Beer On The Wall passes the billionbottles mark.

It was looking a bit knackered, but BB at least went out with a fireworky bang: the final series gave us the greatest line in all the show's history, in Josie's immortal "That woman who got 'er face ripped off by a chimpanzee" speech.

Cricket was as crooked as a scarecrow's cock, the England football team forgot to get on the plane to South Africa, the Commonwealth Games was a falling-down shambles, the Winter Olympics suffered from a spazzy lack of snow... 2010 was the year that sport hobbled back to the changing room, clutching its groin and sobbing like a toddler.

COREY HAIM

ACTUALLY DEAD! The former Lost Boys star who ended up selling hid drugged-up teeth on eBay met a somewhat grisly end courtesy of an accidental overdose.

NORMAN WISDOM

The 95-year-old bumbling legend died this year from natural causes – or did he? In fact, all Norman's colleagues, the so-called Comedy Clique of 1928, are dead. Coincidence? We think not. An evil curse, or even Courtney Love, perhaps?

Just when Facebook and all its prudish social networking chums were getting all het-up about naked ankles and cheeky nipple-slips, Tumblr goes and explodes in our face with a full-on barrage of brilliant filth. Techy experts have been left dumbfounded about the site's 1,540 per cent growth in a year. Could it be the number of pictures of cupcakes on there? Or maybe all the cat videos? I'd say Wagner from The X Factor is up there, because he's a dreamboat even though he can't sing for shit. But it's got to be the Chilean miners, because they were pretty brave and now they're all celebrities.

SO YOU'RE THE 'GIRL OF 2010', BUT IF YOU COULD BE GIRL OF ANY YEAR, WHICH WOULD IT BE?

Ah, that'd be just like in Back To The Future, my all-time favourite film. I don't think I'd want to go to the future, though – I'd want to be Girl Of The Year in, like, the '60s or '70s and burn my bra. I'd be a proper hippie and just sit in my garden smoking spliffs all day.

LASTLY, LOOKING TO THE SHINY FUTURE, WHAT DOES THE BOLD WORLD OF 2011 HAVE IN STORE FOR ROSIE JONES?

Aliens and monsters, for sure.
Actually, they probably won't be around until 2020, so that's enough time for me to encourage more naked girls to run around Earth and for FRONT to take over the planet.

I'd love to go back in time to that era. I wouldn't be one of the gentry, but I'd definitely be high up enough to rock a top hat."

I love the idea of dating taller girls, Von. I like the proximity of their lovely jugs to my moon face, but I'm 5'8" and haven't found any girls tall enough that I like or like me. Do girls not like dating smaller guys?

Wes, Nottingham

They generally don't, Wes. Girls want to feel protected and dainty, so dating someone shorter tends to make us feel a bit manly. No lady wants larger hands than their bloke, either, and tall chicks generally have hair on their big toes, which isn't nice, especially when sucking on them. Tall women are also 27 per cent more likely to shart (follow through when farting) during sex than their smaller counterparts. Keep this in mind next time you're eyeing up a long one.

WHAT CAN WE SAY about WoW that hasn't been said already? As one of the largest MMOs in the WORLD, with an average of 12 million subscribers, it shows no sign of dying in popularity even despite the arrival of other contenders for its MMO throne (Aion, EVE Online, Final Fantasy XIV).

It's easy to forget, then, that this is only the game's third major update since the original was launched in 2004 – but what an update it is. The Azeroth you thought you knew has gone, left damaged beyond all recognition in the wake of Deathwing's return, leaving many well-known starter areas (including Stormwind and Orgrimmar) in chaos.

It's a canny move by the developers which gives the game great replay value, as you are bound to start a new character just to see exactly what has changed. Luckily for you, they have added two new races so you can do exactly that, with Worgens and Goblins being added to the mix as the new Alliance and Horde races respectively. Add into the mix brand new towns, 3,500 new quests, seven new dungeons and three new raids, an extension of the level cap from 80 to 85, and flying mounts in Kalindor and Eastern Kingdoms, and there are there are plenty of excuses to get a pile of crisps together, get comfortable, get your WoW hat back on and rediscover what got you so hideously hooked in the first place.

IN A NUTSHELL

MORE OF THE SAME FROM THE EVIL GENIUSES AT BETHESDA, AND WHY FIX WHAT AIN'T BROKEN?

For those used to the traditionally static style of WoW, the phasing will blow you away. The landscapes change with the story before your eyes, leaving some areas completely mashed-up.

The new races come with all new starting areas and brand new quests. Our favourite is the Worgens, as who doesn't wanna be a werewolf, right?

He's a giant evil dragon that some of you might remember from Warcraft II, whose return from Deepholm is what causes the dimensional rift that brings chaos to Azeroth. The wanker.

FOR ALL YOU Evil Dead fans who love an '80s gorefest, look no further than Splatterhouse – a rather faithful remake of the 1988 arcade beast. You play as the nerdy Rick who's lost his lady at the hands of the evil Dr West and has to battle his way through a house of monsters aided only with his trusty demon mask that turns him into some giant behemoth.

Gameplay-wise, they've really ramped up the action by adding a God Of War hack/slash style to the mix, with ultra-gruesome 'Splattertime' events and the option to use your own (regenerable) limbs as weapons. SRSLY, when we say this game is gory, we bloody mean it.

FOR PROOF THAT dance music can be a nerdy world of baffling daftness, you only need to take a look at some of the ridiculous sub-genres that it divides itself up into: wobblestep, witch house, neurofunk, wonky, UK funky, glitch-hop, clunge-beat... (Alright, we made the last one up, but the rest are real, swear down). Sometimes, all you really want or need is a guy in a giant mouse head banging out stadium-sized rave noises and tank-

Which, of course, is where yer man Deadmau5 comes in. In three short years, the rodent-noggined Canadian has whooshed to the top of the rave ranks thanks to a spectacular live show and some triumphantly brain-fizzing ditties, and his third album contains his most carbonated chyoonz yet – you'll feel like somebody's pouring 7-Up into your right ear and Dr Pepper into your left. The dons of the dressingup box, the French housemeisters haven't been snapped without their big shiny helmets since the '90s. Those things must smell reeeal musty.

The Clash and The Sex Pistols were whipping late-'70s Britain into a spit-covered tizzy, Californians were working on their own fledgling punk scene. This fast, furious and completely awesome compilation collects 26 tracks from that first wave of Cali punk (1976 to 1980), with heartattack tracks from pioneering pogo-ers like The Germs, The Kennedys. Most of it sounds amazingly fresh - although, granted, that is partly because punk hasn't really evolved a fat lot in 30-odd years.

your Uncle Ronnie? mince pies for

It's all completely believable and done with its twisted tongue firmly in cheek. You'll leave the cinema thinking, 'To hell with you, Father Christmas. No > you this year, fatty.' Warning, non-readers: it's a foreign flick, complete with subtitles

NUTSHELL

A BED-PISSING NIGHTMARE BEFORE CRIMBO

INCEPTION

Starring: Leonardo DiVertigo Released 6 December

From UK director Chris Nolan comes a right mind-bender of a flick that you may have heard about, but weren't arsed to see on the big screen (Toy Story 3 was out at the same time, y'know)

Are these words real? Is Rosie Jones real? Is this even a magazine? Why are my shoes on fire?

SEASON 4

TV's most loveable serial killer butchers his way into a fourth, quite possibly best, season. Family man Dex finds himself facing up to having a brutal nemesis

The addition of John Lithgow (the dad from Third Rock From The Sun) as a liver-shittingly terrifying serial killer is the best evil-bastard casting ever

THE BEST AND MOST BAD-ASS SEASON YET

CATFISH

Starring: Yaniv Schulman In cinemas 17 December

Odd-sounding reallife documentary about a randy bloke who sets out to hunt down a girl he meets on Facebook (in the non-molestery way)

You might think of it as being a lowbudget attempt to jump on The Social Network's big-screen bandwagon, but it stands up on its own right

FRONT MAGAZINE LIKES THIS

A sitcom so stale that it makes Last Of The Summer Wine look like an orgy-ridden spin-off of Skins is billed as a 'perfect stocking filler for Mum'. We'd rather have the milkman's yeast infection fill her stockings than this diarrhoea.

Yorkshire's grubbiest family get caught up in yet more nonhilarious moneymaking scrapes, including one which involves digging up Butch Dingle's corpse for an ill-thought-out insurance scam.

Back in the early '90s, some nut-job at Vauxhall came up with the idea of stuffing a big engine into the sensible family saloon, the Carlton. And with 377bhp from its turbocharged V6, the Lotus Carlton could hit almost 180mph. Fortunately, Lotus sorted the handling, so it didn't try and bin you into a hedge and it became an instant classic.

BROWN

I'll tell you who belongs on The Cuntdown: Derren fucking Brown. Trick of the mind? Fuck off, fuck-nugget! Here's a prediction: you're going to go straight to the top of The Cuntdown and stay there. You're as welcome on my TV as a boy scout leader's hand in a lad's sleeping bag. Sandy Flett, Aberdeen Nope, Sandy, sorry.

Derren Brown is the cleverest wizard in Britain, and frequently manages to have his cake and eat it by having a silly pointy beard and making jokes about his silly pointy beard.

That aeroplane one was a bit shit, but the dude's amazing.

WALLACE

Can you put Gregg Wallace, that cunt with the glasses from Masterchef, on The Cuntdown, please? He is a cunt of monolithic proportions, sucks whatever implement he's eating with like a £3 hooker that's double-booked, and generally copies what the other, slightly less cuntish cunt says.

> Andy Bell (not a cunt), via e-mail

There's something weirdly likeable about how Gregg seems to know he's got no idea what he's talking about, so waits for Michel Roux Jr to comment then repeats it wordfor-word. Plus, it's funny when he gets overexcited by cakes and shit. No cunt is he.

WARLIOW

Robbie Williams and Gary Barlow are a double-headed, soppy, lovedup cunt. They're spoiling good oldfashioned bromance for everyone with their shitty turd songs. If the Taliban attack us now, it's because of them two softie cunts.

Aaron W. via text

The two-headed entity that is Garrob Warliow is a fucking cunt alright, Aaron: a fake-friendship hen-party shitrag of insincerity who's just sold out the biggest tour in UK history and so presumably spends its spare time swimming in a bin of money like Scrooge McDuck. Bastard.

MITCHELL

Billy Mitchell - the shittest member of Telly-land's cuntiest family and general all-round fuck-up - really grinds my gears. Someone sit this miserable little cunt down with a bag of anti-depressants and leave him there. He's always whining on about his hard childhood, how he got bummed by a priest or something. Can'thold-down-a-job skidmark of a cunt.

Elboy, via text Abso-goddamn-lutely, Elboy. Seeing Billy Mitchell is just depressing, really; a reminder that not all dreams come true. His downtrodden face should actually be more downtrodden like, actually trodden on. What a fucking rubbish poo of a man. He's had a lifetime of disappointments, and here's another one - he's the second-biggest cunt in Britain.

Give us a cunt! Who riles you to the point of frantic violence? Put your anger into words and let FROM spread your spite across the land. TXT OTT 1 605 946 front@frontarmy.co.uk

WE BUY ANY CAR RAPPERS

The girls that rap in the webuyanycar.com advert: yeah, I'd give 'em a bone, but what a complete set of cunts. My left ballbag busts out better lyrics when I'm taking a shit. If they were up in Yorkshire they'd be told to get back in the kitchen where they belong to make the men a jam roly poly.

Joey B, via e-mail Firstly, Joey, that's a dreadfully sexist attitude (although dibs on a roly poly). Secondly, do you have two ball-bags? Thirdly, though, you're right, they're cunts.

Weemployanycunts.com, more like.
